NEW BANKER: Among other things which will occur the time of Congressman Bill Lantaff next year when he becomes plain "Mr. Lantaff" will be the banking business. He has been named to serve as a director and member of the board of the Curtis Mutual Bank of Miami Springs which was granted a charter here last week. In town to receive the charter with Bill Lantaff were: Edward Mercer, president; Richard Marzane, cashier; and Thomas B. Curry, member of the board.

ANOTHER ELECTION: Here last week, the Florida State Society held their annual election. Officers for 1954-55 are: Dick Stringfellow, an attorney for the C.R.A. president; Bob Williamson, Leesburg, member of Congressman Syd Herlong's staff, first vice president; Miss Iva Dunn, St. Petersburg, who works for the R.F.C. second vice president; Mrs. Jeanette Litschig, Miami, employed by the American Council on Education, secretary; and Miss Jane Monk, Miami, a secretary in the office of Senator George Smathers.

AIR MAIL HITCH-HIKER: Hard to find a good word for the administration. We like their new idea of filling up the empty space in a mail-plane, even though the letters and air mail stamps. We find that for nearly a year our Washington See-Saw has been going to Florida under the new system. Charles Hook, Jr., deputy post master general, says that Miami, Jacksonville and Tampa are getting this extra service. He wouldn't say what percentage or just how much of the regular first class mail was "hitch-hiking" by plane from here to Florida (or vice versa) but said it was a "preponderance." Of course, the guarantee that your mail will fly unless you pay the full air mail rate—but most of it does.

WATERMELON SALESMAN: Congressman Billy Matthews is doing what he can to help Florida watermelons. Last week he wrote to Secretary of Defense Charles Wilson, urging that during the next few weeks the Army would feed the soldiers more watermelon. Wilson said the men certainly would get their share of watermelon to eat, but didn't guarantee it to be from Florida.

GOVERNOR'S DAY: Florida offices on Capitol Hill buzzed last week when Governor-Elect Leroy Collins paid each of them a visit. Mr. and Mrs. Collins had been to Annapolis for "June Week" to see Roy, Jr., a sophomore, before he took off with his classmates on a country-wide air "shake-down" cruise. Also on the trip were daughters Jane 14, and Mary Call 12. In the House Office building he met Dante Fuselli, successful candidate for Congress from Miami. Collins said, "I don't know about you, Dante, but I still dream about my campaign. It doesn't keep me awake, but I sure do dream about it."

WASHINGTON NEWSLETTER

By Sen. George Smathers

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Several years ago, while "bustling" through Florida after a session of Congress, I talked with several newspaper women who had a tax complaint: as working mothers, they were put to considerable professional expense every year for nursing care for their children, but these expenses were not deductible for income tax purposes.

As a result of these conversations, I introduced what came to be known as the "Baby Sitter Bill." This bill did not pass that first year, but the idea spread and before long some 25 members of the House had joined in proposing that these deductions be allowed, and an increasing number of Senators, with whom I talked, agreed to support such a chance. Since I have been appointed to the Finance Committee, one of the most important assignments is that the entire committee now has agreed to write into the proposed new tax law the "baby sitter" amendment. I confidently expect that it now will be approved by both House and Senate. It makes generous allowances in situations where family income is $4,500 or less.

CITRUS TREE CENSUS IN SIGHT: For some time, many leaders in the citrus industry as well as members of our Congressional delegation have been working to set up a system for an accurate account of all Florida's groves. Plant Commissioner Ed Ayers was here the other day discussing such a plan with Sen. Holland and me, and with officials at the Department of Agriculture. The plan is to man a fleet of "jeeps" to go into the groves, and count every tree in the state. Once this task is completed accurately one time, an annual census then will be much simpler, and it will be feasible to keep up-to-date records at all times on our groves. The advantages of the industry in more accurate crop estimates alone justifies the undertaking.

Now that the Senate has completed work on the billion-dollar agriculture appropriations bill, and there appears no signs of a serious disagreement with the House, hope for this census possibly to begin this coming fall is high. The plant board is ready to launch federal funds for the project and the Citrus Manual is making a substantial appropriation.

PROTECTION FOR LIMES, AVOCADOS: Senator Holland, a member of the Agriculture Committee, did a magnificent job for Florida in the agriculture appropriations bill passed by the Senate the other day, and I gave him my full support. A new protection for the state's agriculture economy in the bill is that Florida will have a full-time professional research specialist engaged in research on problems of mango, lime, avocado, and tangelo industries. We expect this man to arrive in Florida and go to work this summer, probably at Orlando.

Both your Florida senators have been pressing for some time toward this end. Our state now has 7,000 acres in mangoes, 9,000 in avocados, and 8,000 in limes.

BY SCHATZI

I've had the most awful buzzing in my head this week.

It's a buzzing resembling the distant noise of an airplane engine, or a car speeding on the highway, or a ship's engines at full steam ahead.

In short, I think I am coming down with vacationitis.

The first symptom came way back in May, I think, when the co-owner of New York fat cat named Koming wrote the bosses of plans for a round-the-world trip this fall.

That got the bosses moaning about how they really should plan to take their first vacation in two years.

Then our landlord, Mr. Bratley, was heading off for Alaska.

And pawing through this week's proofs, I find just dozens more people headed for just dozens of places.

So I am making a few plans of my own.

Naturally, so well-travelled a dog as your newshound wouldn't want to vacation just any old place.

For instance, there is no point going back to my old hunting grounds in Virginia, because though the hunting is good, the ticks are thick, and I have gotten so used to the Florida tick that those big Virginia ones would probably finish me off.

And I never did care for Washington, D.C. except, because the step is so high from the street to curb, and I never could reach the controls of the automatic elevators in the buildings.

Then there's Reno and Carson City, out in Nevada, but I heard the bosses say the place is getting bigger all the time—and goodness knows, it was tough enough when I lived there before, trying to keep from being run over in the traffic between the divorce court and the marriage license bureau.

In fact, the more I think of it, the sorer I am that as the rush of people going away on vacation increases, and everybody's whizzing off some where, I think I'll just stay right here and have a real nice bossless vacation.

Besides, nobody's asked me to go anywhere anyhow.

Doubt assails the American mind from every side.

The McCarthy hearings raise doubts in our minds about the responsibility of our elected officials. The Geneva Conference raises doubts in our minds about our ability as a nation to take front place in international relations. Only the Communist cause is served if we cease to have faith in our institutions and abilities.

We must look at the facts of our position and from them derive strength and encouragement.

America is strong in arms and in faith, she is resilient to external pressures and tolerant of domestic friction.

America will remain so while the people are educated to the facts of democratic institutions and vigilant in maintaining them. It has been said that education is not so much knowing facts as knowing where to find them. The facts of our strength in arms are evident in the Red Cross drives and countless community projects sponsored by worthwhile causes. Similarly the facts of our strength can be seen in our churches and temples on the Sabbath and in the free discussions of the daily news over breakfast coffee.

Looking at the facts, educating ourselves by finding the truth, will banish doubts and uncertainties and let in the light.

Dr. J. Allen Baker and family will arrive in Belle Glade this week and he will begin practice in the office formerly occupied by Dr. Herman Baxt at 114 S.W. 3rd Street, within a few days.

Dr. Baker was born in Campbell, Mo. in 1923, attended grade school and high school in Illinois. He attended the University of Illinois in Urbana for his pre-medical work and received his B.S. degree. He was graduated from the University of Illinois College of Medicine in Chicago and following that interned at Jackson Memorial Hospital in Miami. Upon completion of his internship, he returned to the University of Illinois Medical School where he was on the staff and held a fellowship for post-graduate study.

He previously practiced in Ft. Lauderdale where he was on the staff of Broward General and Provident City hospitals. He currently is practicing in Champaign-Urbana, Ill. where he is on the surgical staff of Burnham City Hospital and Mercy Hospital. He belongs to the Illinois Medical Association, American Medical Association and the Champaign County Medical Association.

Dr. Baker is married and has two children, J. Allen, 2, and Nancy Jean, 8 months. Mrs. Baker was the former Miss Muriel Joannette James of North Judson, Ind. and was graduated from the Gary Methodist School of nursing and later attended the University of Chicago.

Dr. Baker is a member of the Masonic Lodge, the Scottish Rite Order 32nd Degree, and the Shriner's.

While attending the University of Illinois in Urbana he was elected president of Omega Beta Pi. He was elected president of Phi Beta Pi, national medical fraternity, while attending the University of Illinois College of Medicine. Dr. Baker is a member of the Methodist Church and likes to actively participate in church and civic affairs. He was in the Navy during World War II.

Science and Your Health

Summer Health Problems

1 Too much sun = severe burn!

2 Danger! Poison Ivy.

3 Asthma is caused by an allergy to pollen.

4 Keep first-aid kit handy.

Beautiful summer weather and pleasant vacations often bring a variety of special health problems that take people by surprise. Usually minor, these ailments can be avoided by taking simple precautions.

Sunburn is, perhaps, the most common annoyance. Overexposure to the sun, particularly the first time out, will not make up for the long winter indoors but will only result in a severe burn. However, short sessions under the sun have the effect of thickening one layer of skin to give the body protection while developing the pigment that produces that healthy "tan" color. To aid this process, there are protective ointments that filter the burning rays of the sun and allow the body to tan at the same time.

A certain group of shiny, red-tinted, green leaves may be nice to look at but not so touch for they're poison ivy. Contact with the toxic plant results in a severe itching skin rash. Dr. Leon F. Goldman of the University of Cincinnati and other skin specialists have found that hydrocortisone compounds such as Cortril can halt itching within hours and clear up severe cases within a few days.

There are many precautions that should be taken to avoid other maladies. Sufferers of hay fever and seasonal asthma should get special desensitization shots. To lessen chance of catching athlete's foot, toes should be kept dry and clean.

If anyone in the family happens to suffer from car sickness, the U. S. Armed Forces say that a single dose of a new drug, Bonamine, protects most people against motion sickness for at least 24 hours. It's also a good idea to carry a first aid kit on auto trips. And, when you arrive at your destination, check on the location of the nearest physician... just in case.
